I have an Excel sheet that I have copied to a new sheet in the same file. The new sheet is aligned to the left. So when I copied this sheet, I copied all the fields to the new sheet except for one. The leftmost cell on the new sheet was aligned left, as it should have been. But now, all the fields are aligned right. This means I have to manually change all the cells in the spreadsheet to their original position. As an aside, if anyone knows why this is happening, I'd like to know that too. A: You don't need to do anything, except that the alignment is a bit different I downloaded your file and opened it, hence the image. Normally (regarding the screenshots), my File is horizontal and the left is left. With import_export > Horizontal Unraveling the global regulatory mechanisms underlying essential processes such as development, differentiation, and cancer is a critical challenge for the field of biology. The long term goal of our research is to define the general principles and specific regulatory components of the epigenetic mechanisms that govern cellular differentiation and self-renewal in the setting of development. Recent studies have suggested that the histone methyltransferase MLL (mixed-lineage leukemia) is a master regulator of stem cell renewal and differentiation. This proposal aims to delineate the mechanism of action of MLL and its relative ELL (embryonal leukemic transcript-like) protein as a transcriptional regulator of
